Web Developer in Training
Oct. 2018 to Jan. 2019

Completed four full-stack web applications as part of a 500+ hour immersive course that prepares students for a career as full-stack web developers. My projects include:

Petsitter.io:
Petsitter.io is a full-stack web application that allows users to search for pet sitters in their area. The app employs Javascript and React on the front-end, and Ruby on Rails on the back-end. It also utilizes a third-party API to calculate the distance between clients and sitters based upon their zip codes.

Encourage:
This project is a full-stack web application built using Javascript and Ruby on Rails that allows users to view and share pieces of advice or encouragement relevant to their interests. The program also performs sentiment analysis on pieces of advice, scoring how emotionally positive it is and re-coloring the app's background accordingly.

Tic-Tac-Toe:
A tic-tac-toe client built using Javascript that allows users to play a game of tic-tac-toe against themselves, another person online, or an AI opponent with three different difficulty settings. It communicates with a third-party API, enabling users to save and load games.
